INTRODUCTION

The nine publications covered by this Index were chosen because they were printed primarily for the use of members of the Basilian Fathers. One of the nine, The Basilian Teacher, has changed its editorial policy in recent years, nevertheless, for the sake of completeness, all volumes published to the end of 1966 have been included.

This Index does not extend to the publications of local Basilian Houses, e.g.

- a) School Yearbooks such as the Tower of St. Michael's College School, Toronto, which continues the Yearbook of St. Michael's College first published by Rev. Michael J. Oliver, C.S.B., in 1910;
- b) Alumni Newsletters, among which may be mentioned the Alumni Chatter that Rev. J. Francis Mallon, C.S.B., edited for many years at Assumption College, Windsor;
- c) House organs, such as The Memo of Assumption University of Windsor which kept the university community informed of current events;
- d) Learned Journals, first among which ranks Mediaeval Studies, the annual publication of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, Toronto, for which Rev. Terence P. McLaughlin, C.S.B., made a twenty-five year cumulative index in 1964;

- e) Literary magazines, like The Trireme of the University of St. Michael's College, Toronto;
- f) Library news sheets like Folio put out by the library of the University of St. Thomas, Houston;
- g) Appeal letters such as the Mission Memo written for many years by Rev. John F. Collins, C.S.B., to make known the works and needs of the Basilian Missions;
- h) Weekly parish bulletins which can be a valuable source for local history.

The first purpose of this Index is to make available the articles written by members of the Basilian Fathers. A second objective is the location of items recording various aspects of Basilian history.

Author and title entries, also subject entries when made, have been arranged in one alphabet. Under authors and subjects, titles have been arranged in alphabetical order by the first word, initial articles (a, an, the) being disregarded. Under personal names, the writings of an author precede those about him. Under institutions, corporate publications of the institution and historical information about it, precede other writings about it.

Book reviews have been entered under the name of the reviewer. They have been collected also under the heading Book Reviews where the entry is alphabetical by author. Books that do not have a personal or corporate author have been entered under title unless a form heading was more suitable.

Poems have been entered under author and title. They have been collected also under the heading Poems where the entry is alphabetical by author.

The collation for each entry has been limited to inclusive paging, without reference to illustrative matter.

Cross references have been made from early forms of entry to the one now in use, e.g. St. Basil's Scholasticate, to, St. Basil's Seminary.

The Index covers publications down to December 31, 1966. Selective indexing has passed over small items, used as fillers, unless they recorded a bit of Basilian history.

This Index goes back in card form to 1936 when I made an index of authors and titles for the articles in Vol. 1 of The Basilian. It grew over the years and was edited in 1966 for typing in book form during 1967 as a bibliographic project for Canada's Centennial Year.

THE BASILIAN (Bas), a monthly review for Basilians, was published from March 1935 until June 1938. The original subtitle, "a monthly review of Basilian Thought", was dropped at the beginning of the third volume, January 1937. Rev. Henry Carr, Superior General of the Basilian Fathers, introduced the periodical with these words: "What appeals to me in this modest little publication is that it is intended only for ourselves."

The first editorial informed the reader: "Born in the humble surroundings of the Scholasticate English Club, The Basilian is now destined to go forth with its message of good will and with definite aims and motives. To encourage writing among Basilians, to bind our Institute more closely together, to afford our members an opportunity of exchanging spiritual, educational and administrative views, and at the same time to give glory to God and promote the interests of His Holy Church, such is the avowed purpose of The Basilian."

Four volumes were published. The first contained 138 pages in seven issues: March, April, May, June, October, November and December 1935.

Volume 2 contained 156 pages in eight issues: January, February, March, April, May, October, November and December 1936.

Volume 3 had 140 pages in seven issues: January, February, March, April, October, November and December 1937.

Volume 4 had 120 pages in six issues: January, February, March, April, May and June 1938.

The first five issues were published at St. Basil's Scholasticate, Toronto. Commencing with the November issue, 1935, the publisher was The Basilian Press, 63 St. Nicholas Street, Toronto. The format was letter-press printing using an 11" x 8" page.

The publication of a Basilian periodical had been frequently discussed, seriously in 1928, but nothing came of such discussions until the presence of an experienced newspaperman, Eugene Cullinane, among the scholastics at St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto, enabled the Superior, Rev. Hubert P. Coughlin, C.S.B., to start The Basilian as one way of encouraging Basilians to write for publication. Leonard Quinlan succeeded Eugene Cullinane as editor in September 1936. Ronald Cullen was assistant editor.

The demise of The Basilian was caused by a shortage of suitable articles. The last page of the June 1938 number printed an "Editorial Threnody" which ended with: "The editor's lot is not a happy one."

THE BASILIAN ANNALS (Bas.An.) have appeared continuously since July 1943 as "a yearly record published by the Historian of the Congregation of Priests of St. Basil." Circulation is restricted to members of the Basilian Fathers.

Rev. E.J. McCorkell, Superior General of the Basilian Fathers, wrote in his introduction to the first volume: "In its concluding number our General Rule, revised and approved by the General Chapter of 1942, directs the historian of the Congregation to issue an annual chronicle showing the obediences of the current year, and containing biographical notices of members who were ordained or who died during the past year, as well as the text of any important decrees addressed to our Congregation by the Holy See, and a summary of the events of the year in the various houses. This is the first edition of such a chronicle. Its editor plans to publish it each year about the first of July." The date of publication was changed in 1947 to the middle of November.

Three volumes, each with its own index, have been published. Volume 1 contained 312 pages, distributed over eight numbers: July 1943, July 1944, July 1945, October 1946, November 1947, 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Volume 2 contained 452 pages, distributed over nine numbers: November, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, and 1959.

Volume 3 contained 524 pages, distributed over seven numbers: November 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, and 1966.

The format, 9" x 6", printed by letterpress at the Mission Press, Toronto, has been unchanged from Vol. 1, No. 1. The title page lists The Basilian Press as the publisher.

Rev. Robert J. Scollard, C.S.B., first as Historian of the Basilian Fathers and later as Secretary General, has edited the twenty-four annual numbers published to the end of 1966.

THE BASILIAN FORUM (Bas.For.) began publication in October 1964 as a supplement to Vol. 9, No. 1, of The Basilian Teacher. The editor's introduction informed the reader: "In this issue of The Basilian Teacher a new series begins: 'The Basilian Forum' in which a lead article accompanied by a number of 'critiques' examines a topic of particular interest to Basilians. This series, published only in Basilian copies, is designed to answer several needs. The increased non-Basilian circulation calls for articles more strictly educational and less 'Basilian'. Simultaneously there is a general striving among Basilians to think about and discuss matters of community renewal. This supplement will hopefully both stimulate and provide for the much needed communication between individuals, houses, and areas of the community."

The Basilian Forum attained independence in October 1966. Explaining this change the editor wrote: "The separation of the Forum could not have occurred at a more opportune time in our history, for this year of discussion and renewal should expand the role of the Forum beyond that of a supplement to The Basilian Teacher. The <Basilian> Convention <August 1966> spoke of the Forum as 'a sounding board and a safety valve'. (Document on Government) If it serves this purpose so much the better. The Forum was designed as a specifically Basilian opinion forum to increase our understanding of the religious life. It is open to and belongs to all Basilians no matter what their work or interests."

Two volumes have appeared to date. Volume 1 contained 176 pages, distributed over eleven numbers: October, November and December 1964; January, February, March, April, May, October, November and December 1965.

Volume 2 had 132 pages in eight numbers: January, February, March, April, May, October, November and December 1964.

The format of The Basilian Forum is 9" x 6", printed by offset on grey paper.

Edward Bourg was the first editor. Norman Kolb became editor during the summer of 1965. The place of publication is St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto.

THE BASILIAN NEWSLETTER (BN) began publication on June 10, 1961. It is a newsletter of the Basilian general curia and was introduced in these words: "The General Chapter of 1960 recommended the publication of a Basilian newsletter for private circulation among members of the Congregation. Present plans envisage its appearance at irregular intervals, whenever something of general interest is to be communicated to all confreres."

During 1961 nine Newsletters (39 pages) were published: June 10; July 19; August 15, 29; September 8, 29; October 27; November 23; and December 1.

In 1962 there appeared sixteen numbers (89 pages): January 23; February 8; March 2, 23; April 3, 16; May 14, 30; June 3; July 16; September 18; October 9, 19; November 2, 15, 28.

Another sixteen numbers (74 pages) were published during 1963: February 11; March 4, 7, 28; April 1; May 31; June 14, 24; August 13; September 12, 27; October 18, 25; November 15, 21, 29.

Dates of the fourteen Newsletters published in 1964 (66 pages) were: January 24, 31; February 29; March 13, 25; May 8; June 3, 13; July 21; September 11; October 14, 27; November 12, 23.

In 1965 sixteen issues (83 pages) appeared: January 18; February 9; March 1, 14, 19, 29; May 4, 22; June 14; July 19; August 4; September 15, 24; October 1; November 17, 25.

The number of Newsletters rose to twenty-One in 1966 (90 pages): January 27; February 18; March 4, 7, 22; April 25; May 3, 24, 26; June 4, 20, 28; July 9, 28; September 2, 18; October 7, 12; November 14, 18; December 12.

The format for all Newsletters has been typewritten copy reproduced by offset printing on a 14" x 8 1/2" sheet, folded once, making four 7" x 8 1/2" pages.

The editor of The Basilian Newsletter from its inception has been the Secretary General of the Basilian Fathers, Rev. Robert J. Scollard, C.S.B.

THE BASILIAN TEACHER (BT) has been published continuously since January 1956 by the scholastics of the Basilian Fathers at St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto. It replaced the short-lived Educational Bulletin. The foreword in Vol. 1, No. 1, stated: "... for circulation within the Community only. Its purpose still is the informal exchange of ideas and the encouragement of writing among Basilians. The views expressed in it are still private opinions having nor formal approval or disapproval by our superiors."

This editorial policy was changed in October 1961 with the publication in the sixth volume of contributions from outside the Basilian Community. At the same time paid subscriptions were accepted. These have risen from 75 for volume 6 to 240 in January 1967 for volume 11. In keeping with this change in circulation policy a Basilian news feature, "Intercom", was dropped. A further concentration on strictly professional articles transferred the informal exchange of ideas among Basilians from The Basilian Teacher, with the publication of Vol. 9, No. 1, October 1964, to a new periodical, The Basilian Forum.

Ten volumes were published to the end of 1966. Volume 1 contained twelve numbers (270 pages) each paged separately:

January, 20 pages; February, 22 pages; April, 22 pages; May, 20 pages; October, 22 pages; November, 22 pages; and December, 24 pages. These were published in 1956. Numbers appearing in 1957 were: January, 24 pages; February, 22 pages; March, 24 pages; April, 22 pages; and May, 26 pages.

Volume 2 contained eight numbers (201 pages) each paged separately: October, 22 pages; November, 24 pages; December, 28 pages, 1957; and in 1958: January, 26 pages; February, 26 pages; March, 26 pages; April, 22 pages; May, 27 pages.

Continuous numbering of pages was adopted in Volume 3 which contained 242 pages distributed through eight numbers: October, November and December 1958; January, February, March, April and May 1959.

Volume 4 had 266 pages in eight numbers: October, November and December 1959; January, February, March, April and May 1960.

Volume 5 had 326 pages in eight numbers: October, November and December 1960; January, February, March, April and May 1961.

Volume 6 had 332 pages in eight numbers: October, November and December 1961; January, February, March, April and May 1962.

Volume 7 had 298 pages in eight numbers: October, November and December 1962; January, February, March, April and May 1963.

Volume 8 contained 494 pages in eight numbers: October, November and December 1963; January, February, March, April and May 1964. Two supplements were published to this volume: the one an 86 page booklet with the title, Check-points for Teachers, published the proceedings of the Basilian Christmas Educational Conference, December 1963; the other was a reprint of four articles in the March, 1964, number on the late Reverend Henry Carr, C.S.B.

Volume 9 changed the publication year to coincide with the calendar year by printing eleven numbers totalling 620 pages: October, November and December 1964; January, February, March, April, May, October, November and December 1965.

Volume 10 contained 448 pages in eight numbers: January, February, March, April, May, October, November and December 1966. With the October number of this volume The Basilian Teacher began to seek financial independence by suspending free circulation to Basilians. Paid up subscriptions at the end of 1966 amounted to 380.

An annual index has been published at the end of each volume. Marvin LaBute has prepared a ten year cumulative index for publication in 1967.

The first four volumes were mimeographed on both sides of an 8 1/2" x 11" sheet of paper. Offset printing was adopted at the beginning of Volume 5 (October 1960) and the page size was changed to 10" x 7 1/2". Copy was typewritten until December 1961 when a Varityper was used to prepare copy. The present format, 9" x 6", was adopted at the beginning of Volume 7 (October 1963).

Kenneth Cashion edited Vol. 1, No. 1, and then was succeeded by Michael Sosoluski. Editorial assistants were Lawrence Galla, Stanley Kutz and Donald McCarthy. Later editors were: Michael Quealey, volumes 4 and 5; John Bradshaw, volume 6; Joseph Quinn, volume 7; Edward Bourg, volume 8 and volume 9 until May 1965; Norman Kolb, volume 9, October 1965 to date.

Assistant editors were: Michel Deglène for volumes 5 and 6; Norman Kolb for volume 9, October 1964 to May 1965.

BENEDICAMUS (Bene), a community bulletin, was published by the scholastics of the Congregation of St. Basil at St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto, from March 1948 until February 1954. The subtitle was dropped in January 1950, Vol. 3, No. 3. The title was changed to Basilian with Vol. 6, No. 1, December 1952.

Rev. E.J. McCorkell, Superior General of the Basilian Fathers, wrote in a foreword to the first issue: "Benedicamus stems from an international meeting of seminarians in Montreal last June <1947> which was attended by a group of Basilian scholastics. The basic idea of the gathering was that to win America for Christ lay leadership must be trained and put to work as an auxiliary apostolate."

Seven volumes were published. Volume 1, 1948, contained four numbers (32 pages), each paged separately: March, 8 pages; April, 8 pages; May, 8 pages; and June, 8 pages.

Volume 2 contained 48 pages distributed through six issues: November 1958; January, February, March, May and June 1949.

Volume 3 contained 56 pages distributed over seven issues: November and December 1949; January, February, March, May and June 1950.

Volume 4 had 32 pages in four issues: October, November and December 1950; and March 1951.

Volume 5 contained four numbers (40 pages), each paged separately: February, 8 pages; April, 12 pages; May, 8 pages; and June 12, pages, all in 1952.

Volume 6 published two numbers, and these under a new title, Basilian: 16 pages in December 1952 and another 16 pages in April 1953.

Volume 7 published only one issue, February 1954, 12 pages and used the title Basilian.

Volumes 1 and 2 were printed by letterpress with a 9" x 6" page size. Subsequent volumes were published by offset printing from typewritten copy in a slightly larger format, 9 1/2" x 6 1/2", except volumes 6 and 7 which were 6 1/4" x 4 7/8".

Rev. J.T. Roland Janisse, C.S.B., as Director of the Basilian Press, supported and encouraged the staff of Benedicamus. The first editor was John Madden with Elliott Allen as assistant. Staff members were: Frederick Black, Hugh Foley, Wallace Platt, Walter Principe and Vincent Thompson. Elliott Allen was editor of volume 2 with these staff members: Richard Donovan, Hugh Foley, Roland Janisse, John Madden and Michael Sheehan.

The third volumes was published as a joint effort without designating an editor. Volume 4 listed the staff as: James Cashubec, John Fournier, Leo McGrady, Eugene Malley, Richard Jeffery, Frederick Cahill, Raymond Jackson, Joseph Gordon and Donald McCarthy. Michael Sheehan joined the staff with the publication of the second number of this volume Volume 5 had Leon Hart as editor, and as associate editors: James Hanrahan, Kevin Kirley, John Fournier and John Callaghan. David Bauer was business manager.

Volume 6 was edited by Francis Boehm w with James Hanrahan, Leon Hart, David Bauer, John Whitley, Edward McLean and John Callaghan as assistants. Robert Madden was business manager. Volume 7 does not list the names of those connected with it.

An EDUCATIONAL BULLETIN (Ed.Bul.) was published in 1955 by a group of Basilian scholastics at St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto. It was closely related to the Basilian Christmas Educational Conference.

The Conference held in December 1954 had for its theme, "Problems in Education". The principal papers read at it were mimeographed (19 pages) on 8 1/2" x 11" paper by Kenneth Cashion and Robert Klem. In a letter dated April 9, 1955, Archbishop George Flahiff, at that time Superior General of the Basilian Fathers, introduced the Proceedings of this Conference by asking: "Must we await the Christmas Conference each year to renew our interest in problems that must surely concern us constantly in our role as educators?"

The response to his appeal was an Educational Bulletin published by Kenneth Cashion in June 1955, 8 pages mimeographed on one side of an 8 1/2" x 11" sheet of paper. Archbishop Flahiff wrote another letter to introduce it: "Several weeks ago it was announced that a bulletin dealing with educational matters was under consideration. The decision has finally been taken to launch it. The first number is herewith offered to you. Its primary purpose is to serve as a vehicle for an exchange of views among Basilians."

In the Autumn of 1955 it was decided that the coming Christmas Educational Conference for Basilians should be advertised by publishing a second number of the Educational Bulletin. This appeared in November 1955 with an 8 1/2" x 5 1/2" format and a green cover into which the staff artist, Robert McKinnon, incorporated a new title, "The Basilian Teacher."

The Bulletin staff, Kenneth Cashion, Robert Klem, Michael Sosulski, and Edward McLean, adopted the new title and in January 1956 The Basilian Teacher replaced the Educational Bulletin.

The OCCASIONAL PAPERS (Occ.Pap.) of St. Basil's Seminary were published during the academic year 1956-57 "cum permissu superiorum" for private circulation among Basilians. Appended to each paper was a statement of policy: "The Occasional Papers will deal with some phase of the sacred sciences, the religious life or pedagogical theory and practice, and will consist of manuscripts submitted by the teaching staff and students of St. Basil's Seminary."

Seven papers (164 pages) were published: October 1956, 10 pages; November 1956, 22 pages; January 1957, 27 pages; February 1957, 36 pages; March 1957, 22 pages; April 1957, 28 pages; and May 1957, 19 pages. Two pages were contributed by members of the teaching staff: No. 2 (Nov. 1956) by Rev. John V. Corrigan, C.S.B., and No. 6 (April 1957) by Rev. J. Terence Forestell, C.S.B. Student contributors, in order of publication, were Robert Matzinger, Charles Leland, Edwin Kline, Richard Elmer and Stanley Kutz.

The format for all papers was an 8 1/2" x 11" sheet, mimeographed on both sides. Members of the publication board responsible for the Occasional Papers were: Rev. Vincent L. Kennedy, C.S.B.; chairman; J.J. Francis Firth, C.S.B.; Eugene R. Malley, C.S.B.; and Robert J. Scollard, C.S.B., business manager.

Seven meetings to discuss vocations were held by the Basilian Fathers between 1955 and 1961. The Proceedings of these Vocation Meetings (Voc.Proc.) constitute a volume of 133 pages, printed on one side of an 8 1/2" x 11" page. All numbers of these Proceedings bore the legend, "For Private Circulation". The theme of each meeting was used as a cover title for the Proceedings.

The first meeting was held on December 29, 1955. Its proceedings were published under the title, "Basilians Meet To Discuss Vocations". Rev. Robert J. Scollard, C.S.B., was responsible for convening this meeting, and for the second meeting which had the theme, "The Signs of a Priestly Vocation."

Rev. John V. Corrigan was appointed Director of Vocations in 1957 and he convened the third, fourth, fifth and sixth meetings which were devoted, respectively, to: "The Theology of Religious Vocations"; "The Fostering of Vocations"; "The Theology of Religious Vocations"; and "The Uncovering and Nurturing of Ecclesiastical Vocations".

Rev. Edmund M. Brennan, C.S.B., succeeded Father Corrigan in the office of Director of Vocations and he convened the the seventh meeting, December 29, 1961, to discuss "Present Day Problems In Vocation Work."

Rev. Robert J. Scollard, C.S.B., was responsible for the publication of the Proceedings of all seven meetings.
